MISSION
The California Department of Rehabilitation works in partnership with consumers and other stakeholders to provide services and advocacy resulting in employment, independent living, and equality for individuals with disabilities.

DEPARTMENTAL OVERVIEW
DOR administers the largest vocational rehabilitation and independent living program in the country. Every year, DOR serves more than 100,000 individuals with significant disabilities. Vocational rehabilitation services are designed to help job seekers with disabilities obtain competitive employment in integrated work settings. The 28 non-profit independent living centers provide services necessary to assist consumers to live independently and productively in their communities.

CORE VALUES
We believe in the talent and potential of individuals with disabilities. We invest in the future through creativity, ingenuity, and innovation. We ensure our decisions and actions are informed by interested individuals and groups. We pursue excellence through continuous improvement. We preserve the public’s trust through compassionate and responsible provision of services.
MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTORATE

At the close of fiscal year (FY) 2015-2016, DOR delivered employment and independent living services to more than 120,000 Californians with disabilities while pursuing new opportunities for collaboration, and commitment to a society that can readily boast about being inclusive and barrier-free. We remain optimistic as the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) rules were finalized last summer, facilitating a basis for us and our community partners to reassess the effectiveness of current programs, and work together to identify new ways to deliver services. While the law did not change the work we do, it asks us to rethink how we do it, and we firmly believe in the spirit of the law’s intent to invest in a trained and educated younger generation that is ready to fill a hungry talent pipeline as articulated by a fully engaged and welcoming business community.

In FY 2015-2016, we stridently worked with our partners in support of our collective vision. Though relationship building, outreach, and new partnerships, we continued to make a solid business case for hiring people with disabilities while positioning our department as a resource for active participants seeking independent living through access to good jobs and upward mobility. Among our many accomplishments we are always most pleased with those that were the result of shared goals. We partnered with the State Independent Living Council, Independent Living Center directors, and our communities on the first State Plan for Independent Living under WIOA. We joined with our state partners and stakeholders to develop and submit the first Unified State Plan. And, we partnered with the California Department of Education, the Department of Developmental Services, the Health and Human Services Agency, and Disability Rights California in developing a Blueprint for Change through competitive integrated employment, which was shaped by stakeholders through public forums.

We are proud of our collaborations and our work, but most of all, we are very proud of our team at DOR - working tirelessly to boost the quality of life for a diverse population of multicultural Californians with significant disabilities, all representing myriad dimensions of identity and hailing from many unique and interesting walks of life.

Moving full steam ahead toward employment, independence, and equality.

VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION PROGRAM OVERVIEW

DOR partners with individuals with disabilities to help build viable careers and live independently in their community. In FY 2015 - 2016, vocational rehabilitation counselors provided employment services to more than 98,000 eligible job-seeking adults and youth tailored to abilities, interests, and choice. Services provided may include career guidance and counseling, job search and interview skills training, independent living skills, on the job training, employment preparation, assistive technology and other services.

Innovations in Vocational Rehabilitation for FY 2015 - 2016

Work Incentive Planning

DOR Work Incentive Planning Services highlight the advantages of work and self-sufficiency by helping ready-to-work consumers understand how working can affect Social Security and other benefits. Public benefit programs can sometimes seem complex. DOR work incentive planners correct misinformation and provide benefit analysis and advice.

Unified State Plan

DOR, in collaboration with our WIOA core partners, participated in the development of California’s first-ever Unified State Plan for 2016 – 2020. The plan articulates California’s vision and goals for an educated and skilled workforce. The DOR vocational rehabilitation services portion of the Unified State Plan establishes the department’s priorities, goals, objectives and strategies.

GOALS:

1 YOUTH
   Increase employment opportunities for youth by offering coordinated training and employment services to gain skills needed to prepare for a fulfilling career.

2 BUSINESS ENGAGEMENT
   Increase partnerships with businesses to develop and expand work experience, internship, and employment opportunities for adults and youth with disabilities.

3 CAPACITY BUILDING
   Establish or enhance partnerships with WIOA core programs to improve service delivery for adults and youth with disabilities.

4 COMPETITIVE INTEGRATED EMPLOYMENT
   Increase opportunities for consumers to earn wages comparable to non-disabled workers performing the same tasks.

CaPROMISE

CaPROMISE is a joint initiative of the U.S. Department of Education, U.S. Social Security Administration, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and the U.S. Department of Labor. The goal of CaPROMISE is to develop and implement model demonstration projects that promote positive outcomes for 14-to-16 year old Supplemental Security Income recipients and their families.

DOR’s Specialized Services Division (SSD) was established when California Senate Bill 105 was signed into law in 2002. The law mandates a more formalized and tailored approach to vocational rehabilitation, job training, and placement services to individuals with sensory disabilities.

Under the SSD, administrators, counselors, and support staff were realigned to create the Blind Field Services (BFS) District and the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Services (DHHS) program. BFS District staff and DHHS program representatives are located throughout California, and provide specialized services to their respective consumer groups.

In addition, the law gives SSD oversight of the Business Enterprises Program, the Orientation Center for the Blind, and the Older Individuals who are Blind program.
Specialized Services Division service offerings include:

Blind Field Services (BFS)
The BFS is a statewide district that provides specialized and comprehensive vocational rehabilitation services to Californians with vision loss. The BFS utilizes a team approach to service delivery through nine units of rehabilitation counselors for the blind and paraprofessional staff managed by the team managers and a district administrator, all of whom have specialized knowledge and training in serving this population.

Business Enterprise Program (BEP)
The BEP was created through the Federal Randolph-Sheppard Act of 1936 to provide persons who are blind with paid employment through the operation of vending facilities on federal and other publicly owned property. The program was intended to improve employment opportunities for trained, licensed blind persons to operate cafeterias, snack bars, and automatic vending machines on federal property.

Orientation Center for the Blind (OCB)
The OCB is a DOR owned and operated residential training facility that assists adults who are visually impaired and blind adjust to their vision loss. Credentialed teachers and qualified rehabilitation professionals provide a full curriculum of classes and experiences individually tailored to assist each student to reach their full potential for independence and to develop pre-vocational skills. The residential facility can support 36 students at any given time. With state-of-the-art assistive technology and an office training area for student computer training, OCB students have opportunities to develop pre-vocational and independent living skills.

Independent Living Skills for Older Individuals Who Are Blind (OIB)
Title VII, Chapter 2 of the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973 as amended funds independent living services to individuals age 55 or older whose severe visual impairment makes competitive employment difficult to attain, but for whom independent living goals are still feasible.

Deaf and Hard of Hearing Services (DHHS)
The DHHS program provides technical guidance and vocational rehabilitation consultation to rehabilitation counselors and district administrators across California. Additionally, the program focuses on deaf sensitivity and other in-service trainings, producing resources in American Sign Language, and accessibility efforts such as video remote interpreting.

INDEPENDENT LIVING & COMMUNITY ACCESS DIVISION

DOR’s Independent Living & Community Division is one part of California’s independent living network. The network is dedicated to the ideal that communities become fully accessible and integrated so that all persons with disabilities can live, work, shop and play where they choose, without barriers. DOR administers the program in California and provides technical assistance and financial support for the independent living centers. Services may include peer support, skill development, systems advocacy, referrals, assistive technology service, transition services, housing assistance, and personal assistance services.

CCEPD
CALIFORNIA COMMITTEE ON EMPLOYMENT OF PEOPLES WITH DISABILITIES

1. Bring individuals with disabilities into gainful employment at a rate that is close as possible to that of the general population.

2. Support equality of opportunity, full participation, independent living, and economic self-sufficiency for individuals with disabilities.

3. Ensure that state government is a model employer of individuals with disabilities.

4. Support state coordination regarding benefits planning training and information sharing projects supported by private foundations and private grants.
Assistive Technology is any object used to make life easier for persons with disabilities - devices, gadgets, tools, hardware, and/or software that can help people live, work, learn, and play as independently as possible.

TBI - Traumatic Brain Injury Program

A TBI is caused by a bump, blow, or jolt to the head or a penetrating head injury that disrupts the normal function of the brain. Not all blows or jolts to the head result in a TBI. The severity of a TBI may range from “mild” (i.e., a brief change in mental status or consciousness) to “severe” (i.e., an extended period of unconsciousness or memory loss after the injury). Most TBIs that occur each year are mild, commonly called concussions.

- 918 Consumers Enrolled
- 5,300 Community Members Served Through Trainings

DAS - Disability Access Services

For 24 years, DAS has been providing technical assistance to state and local government, employers, and businesses.

- 110 Trainings, presentations, and disability awareness events provided throughout the state for 3,203 attendees on the following topics in FY 2015 - 2016:

  - 45 Digital access, i.e.: creating accessible word and PDF forms, and creating 508 compliant/accessible documents and forms.
  - 43 Disability employment such as Hiring and Supervising an Employee with a Disability.
  - 13 Disability awareness presentations and events.
  - 9 Physical Access Overview and Polling Place Accessibility.
INDEPENDENT LIVING SUCCESS STORIES

Ken was interested in the Minor Home Modification (MHM) program. At that time Ken did not need services at Placer Independent Resource Services (PIRS), but he wanted to help others that did. Ken became one of the first volunteers for the program. He learned about consumer files and assisted staff in creating documents used for the MHM program. Ken was diagnosed with Parkinson’s disease in the 1970’s and read everything he could to understand Parkinson’s and its progression. Ken and his wife started and ran the Auburn Area Parkinson’s Support Group. Ken regularly presented to staff and the community about Parkinson’s. Once Ken’s Parkinson’s progressed he no longer felt comfortable going out to people’s homes so he instead volunteered in the office making consumer folders and producing other documents. When Ken became a consumer, PIRS assisted with several different home modifications and assistive technology to enable him to stay in his home safely and independently.

Ken’s primary goal was to live in the home that he and his wife built. Ken passed away in the fall of 2015. With PIRS’s assistance he obtained his goal of living at home.
When Jose was 28 years old, he sustained a traumatic brain injury (TBI) from a car accident. Afterwards, Jose said he “had to learn how to crawl again.” This was quite a challenge for someone used to being highly independent. He needed constant reminders about appointments, taking his medicine and even eating. He became depressed, gained weight, and stopped taking care of himself.

Jose’s outlook slowly shifted toward optimism when he started receiving services from Central Coast Center for Independent Living (CCCIL). Staff helped him obtain benefits, and he began working with a mobility trainer. Jose began to feel that he was rejoining society and on his way to becoming independent again.

“The people at CCCIL were very patient with me while I learned how to take care of things on my own, like making appointments and keeping track of them.” Staff members also invited Jose to participate in several advocacy events including Disability Action Day. “I will never forget this experience. It was so inspiring – taking the train, talking with the group I went with, and advocating for my peers.”

Twice a month, Jose attends a CCCIL-sponsored support group for people with TBI. He enjoys learning from people with a TBI who share similar experiences.

“CCCIL helped me get on my feet. Without them, I would not be at this point where I’m becoming successful,” said Jose. “I know I accomplished a lot, but I can still strive for greatness. And CCCIL will be there to support me.”
